

This is an interesting petition and I am initially supportive of it, with the exception of their being no requirement of the General written exam for Technician and Technician-Plus licensees. I do believe that there is a significant difference between the Technician and General license study materials and believe Element 3 should be required for all prospective General class licensees. I support dropping Element 1 as a prerequisite for all license classes and am intrigued by the description of the proposed Communicator class.